ANOTHER KANSAN

WHO IS ANXIOUS TO WEAR THE BLUE DONKEY BIBBON.

HE WANTS TO EXTEND PENSIONS

So as to Include All the Relatives of Criminals Who Have Brought Death Upon Themselves in the South.

Washington, January 27.—[Special.]—Mr. Kelley, a new member of congress, from Kansas, introduced in the house today a bill to pension the widows and orphans of people killed for political purposes since the close of the late war, and placing them on the same footing with the dependents of men who served in the union army. This is a buncombe bill, offered by a man who wants to attract attention, and will never got out of the committee to which it has been referred. It recltes that in some portions of the country the union flag is despised, and that men are being murflag is despised, and that men are being mur-dered who uphold the flag and the union.

THE LAW FOR ORLAHOMA. The house committee on territories today considered the Oklahoma territorial bill, and will perfect the measure and report it to the house by the end of the week. A hot contest was made over extending the laws of some one of the states over the proposed new territory. Mr. Petkins, of Kansas, wanted the laws of his state adopted, but, on account of prohibition and a constitutional provision of the Kansas laws preventing people who served in the southern army from voting, the committee will not accept the laws of "Bleeding Kansas." The probabilities are that the laws of Missouri or California will be adopted, with the chances in favor of the latter.

THE DIRECT TAX BILL. Colonel Oates, of Alabama, is preparing to meet the direct tax bill when it comes over from the senate. He is going to tack the cotton tax refunding bill to it, and demand a vote upon that first. Then he is going to add another amendment, which is of the utmost importance to every section of the south. It is to allow the people of the south to go before the court the people of the south to go before the court of claims and establish their right to the $10,000,000 in the treasury, which belongs to individual citizens of the south, and which is the proceeds from the sale of captured and abandoned property. The supreme court has decided that this money is the property of individual citizens of the southern states, and that the government is simply holding it in trust. However, congress has never passed an set allowing the courses of the money to go the property of act allowing the owners of the money to go their rights to it. Indeed, heretofore none could get their money who could not prove loyalty. However, it is probable that will be remedied this session, and after a quarter of a century the money will be returned to its

BILLS BY MR. BARNES. Mr. Barnes introduced three important bills for Georgia today. The first was to refund the cotton tax collected between 1863 and 1868. The bill carries with it an appropriation of $68,000,000, all of which goes to the south. In the event of the passage of the bill, Georgia will receive $12,000,000. Another is to make the arsenal at Augusta a manufactory of munitions of war. No definite amount is mentioned, but the bill authorizes the necessary appropriation. His third bill appropriates $50,000 to improve the Savannah, between Trotter shoals and Angusta, and $100,000 to improve it between Augusta and Savannah.

THE SOUTHERN TRIP. The programme for the southern trip of the Pan-American congress has not yet been made out, but they will, perhaps, leave here about the middle of February. A number of the delegates have expressed a desire to see the large cotton mills at Augusta, and that is

Judge Stewart's federal prison bill passed the house this afternoon by a very small majority. There is a motion, however, now pending, made by Mr. Holman, to reconsider but it is not probable that the motion will prevail. On the vote the Georgia delegation did not stand by the judge. Only Mr. Blount and Mr. Candler voted with him for the bill. the other members, except Mr. Grimes, who was paired, voted against it. Mr. Clements made a strong speech in opposition to the bill, which undoubtedly carried many votes with it. He said there was no necessity for the prisons. Out of forty-two states of the union only about four had refused to have federal prisoners; that for over one hundred years the United States had had no difficulty in arranging with the states to take its prisoners, and there was none now. The bill, on its face, provided an expenditure of $1,600,000, but the cost might be put at twice that, and then the annual expense would be very large. In the state prisons, prisoners would receive the same attention they would in federal prisons. Then Mr. Clements said congress would do well to devote early attention to the repeal of the tobacco tax and laws that forbid an honest man who grew a crop on his own land, by his own labor, the right to sell his crop to the highest bidder in the best market, under penalties, and other features of the internal revenue laws which were oppressive, and which made prisoners of honest and innocent men, rather than making great appropriations to build prisons in which to incarcerate them. Then he had read a speech made by Mr. Reed in the last congress, in which the democrats were criticised for proposing to take a recess before the rules had been adopted, and saying the republicans were ready to join the democrats in repealing the tobacco tax. Mr. Clements called attention to the fact that this house has had no opportunity yet to vote for its desired. would do well to devote early attention to the house has had no opportunity yet to vote for either the rules or the repeal of the tobacco

Mr. Clements, indeed, gave the bill a politi-cal turn, and came near defeating it. Judge Stewart said tonight he believed Atlanta had a better chance to get the prison than any other city, and that it was probable that the attorney general would favor it. However, it is going to take lively work on the part of the citizens of Atlanta to secure it, in the event it passes the senate.

THE ALLEGED OUTRACES.

The resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Chandler, calling on the attorney general for the report of the United States marshal for the northern district of Massachusetts concerning the maltreatment of Henry J. Faunce, at Aberdeen, Miss., was taken up for consideration.

Aberdeen, Miss., was taken up for consideration.

Mr. Waltham addressed the senate. It could not be possibly pretended, he thought, that congress had any jurisdiction of the subject. It had been referred to by the distinguished senator from Kansas (Iugalls) last Thursday in his (Waltham's) absence. But from reading the report of the senator's remarks he saw that he had commented on the hanging in effigy of Secretary Proctor, at Aberdeen, and on a most brutal and outrageous assault committed on a citizen named in the resolution. From what he (Waltham) had heard of that affair, he felt warranted in saying that it was simply the want of judgment of a few persons, and disapproved by the community in which it occurred. He knew that community in which it occurred. He knew that community intimately, but he had never before heard of the persons concerned in that outrage. Speaking for himself and representing the sentlment of people all over Mississipi, and of the south, he condemned unqualifiedly and unreservedly that outrage on the secretary of war, and on the citizen named in the resolution.

fieldy and unreservedly that outrage on the secretary of war, and on the citizen named in the resolution.

SENATOR GEORGE SPEAKS.

Mr. George spoke of the resolution as unparalleled in the history of legislation in this country. It was a simple, bold proposition to place on the records of the senate a report of United States marshals, acting as detectives. While there might be some excuse for that official intermeddling in an affair with which he had no legal authority to intermeddle, there was no excuse for the senate (composed of able, discreet and, he hoped, fair-minded men) for calling such a document from the pigeonhole, in the department of justice, and dignifying it as an official document. Heasked the senators to pause, to stop, to think, what they were doing. By courtesy of the attorney general, he (George) had been furnished with a copy of the marshal's report; and he had no objection to have it read from the clerk's desk. He admitted that the facts had been correctly stated by the senator from Kansas the other day, (perhaps with a little coloring) and he had no hesitation in declaring that transaction was such as demanded of the legislature of the state of Mississippi an examination and reparation to the men who had been thus maltreated.

Mr. Chandler advocated the resolution, and declared that he had not seen the report and did not know what it contained. But he had heard that there was such a report and had offered the resolution. He had done so, believing that the report was one which it was the province of the senate to call for. He understood that the attorney general, hearing of that outrage had directed the marshal to make a report, and that the marshal had done so in pursuance of that instruction. If the attorney general, hearing of that outrage had directed the marshal to make a report, and that the marshal had done so in pursuance of that instruction.

report, and that the marshal to make a report, and that the marshal had done so in pursuance of that instruction. If the attorney general and United States marshal had been doing wrong to the state of Mississippi, the senate ought to find it out, and would find it out by the adoption of the resolution. If the senate was only to be taunted when wrongs of this kind were committed, by being asked: "What are you going to do about it? You cannot help yourselves. The constitution does not allow you to punish wrongs of that kind?" but was also to be told by the senator from Mississippi: "You have not the right to inquire, and you dare not inquire into outrages of this sort on a citizen." Then, indeed, had the senate fallen on woeful and lamentable times.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Ingalls, Hoar, Springer, Wilson of Iowa and Reagan.

The resolution went over without action, and the senate adjourned.

The West Virginia Contest.

PITTSEURG, January 27.—A Charleston dispatch says: The gubernatorial court met again this morning to histen to the continuation and conclusion of General J. W. St. Clair's argument closing the presentation of the contest before the joint assembly. The first half of General St. Clair's speech was confined entirely to the consideration of the contested votes in the counties of Mercer and McDowell, he taking up the cases and explaining and defending the action of the majority of the committee. He was frequently interrupted by General Goff and at times the debate was spicy. The concluding portion of his speech was of a political nature and designed apparently to justify the contest proceedings. The democrats hold that his arguments are unanswerable. The republicans, however, say the speech was simply an apology for the wrong.

BECAUSE SHE WAS A WOMAN.

Mr. Glenn's appeals in behalf of his clientwere pathetic in the extreme, and tears trickled down the cheeks of three jurers besides many in the court house. Mr. Glenn declared that the state had failed in its effort to make out any case at all, saying that even the evidence that was introduced was only circumstantial, which never should convict any woman. He appealed to the manhood of the jury, and pictured to them the hidiousness of convicting a poor defenseless girl on so weak evidence, which might, when too late, prove no evidence at all. Mr. Glenn closed his speech at twenty minutes to four, and Judge Merriman at once began his charge to the jury. At ten minutes to four the jury retired.

THE PRISONER SMILES. Mrs. Morris during the entire evening occu-pied a seat by her counsel, and when the jury retired she kept her seat. The judge, lawyers and others chatted away, and until it was announced that the jury had agreed, the courtroom was in a considerable roar. Several friends went across and spoke encouraging words to Mrs. Morris, who seemed inclined to grow nervous. She was seen to smile hopefully once or twice. It was just twenty minutes past four by the courthouse clock when the jury entered the courtroom

THE VERDICT, "NOT GUILTY." There was a death-like stillness as the voice of the clerk rang out: "Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed on a verdict?"

"We have," answered Foreman Sanders. Addressing Mrs. Morris, the clerk said: "Prisoner, look upon the jury," and then turning, "Gentlemen of the jury, look upon the prisoner."

Mrs. Morris cast a half hopeful and half despairing look at the men who held her life in "What say you, gentlemen, guilty or not

"Not guilty," answered Foreman Sanders, and the others nodded their heads in assent.

DRIVEN TO HER HOME.

Mrs. Morris at once left the courtroom, ac companied by her father and other relatives and friends. Many rushed up and extended her congratulations. At the court house door stood a two-horse phaeton. She was assisted into this, and at once driven to her home in Reidsville, where she will enjoy a good night's rest, perhaps the first in many months. The verdict is not at all satisfactory, but was just what was mostly expected. The state intro-duced some very strong circumstantial evidence, but on account of the high social posi-tion and beauty of the defendant, it was plainly evident all through that she could not be convicted. Indignant citizens remarked to your correspondent tonight:
"You can't convict a pretty woman of a capital crime in North Carolina. There's no use in trying, let the evidence be ever so strong."

The prisoner told them during the examina tion that he wanted to kill both Bishop Whitaker and Rev. Dr. S. D. McConnell, of St. Stephen' Protestant Episcopal church, upon whom he placed the responsibility for the defeat of the prohibition cause at the state election in June last. Relatives of the prisoner desired to place the young man in an asylum, but Magistrate Pole thought the case was one for a jury, and committed Alexander for trial at the present term of the court.

PHILADELPHIA. January 27.—United States Commissioner Edmunds has for some days been hearing charges against ten sailors of the bark Jennie Harkness, of having set fire to the bark in the harbor of Manila, in the Phillipine Islands, while loading sugar. ATLANTA, GA., TUESDAY, JANUARY 28, 1890.

A Horrible Accident on the Monon Line—
List of the Killed.

Isdanapolis, January 27.—Passenger train
No. 1 on the Monon, which left Chicago Sunday night at 11:55, was wrecked this morning at 9:50, one mile above Carmel, a village sixteen miles north of this city. The train was running at a rapid rate and was approaching a long trestle across Wilkerson creek, when the tender of the engine jumped the track. The engineer reversed his engine but before the air brakes could check the speed of the train, the locomotive and baggage car had cleared the trestle, but the sleeper and smoking car went over in the creek, both taking fire almost immediately and being consumed in a remarkably short time. Those who escaped uninjured builed themselves in digging out the dead and injured from the wreck, but before this could be accomplished the heat of the burning cars became so intense that they had to withdraw. As far as known at this hour the following are the killed and injured.

Mrs. EUBANK Broad Ripple, Ind., burned. TWO CHILLDREN of D. S. Oldham, Sheridan, Ind., burned, AN UNKNOWN MAN, who died soon after being rescued.

Mrs. LIZZIE FITZPATRICK, Indianapolis, missing and supposed to have been burned.

serious; Julius Pearson, Sheridan, Ind., serious.

THE LIST SWELLING.

Additional particulars of the accident add two more women to the list of killed, while the list of injured will probably be increased. Up to noon the names of the two additional killed have not been ascertained. The engine got clear over the trestle immediately next to it, toppling over on the incline and taking fire, whether from lamps or stoves has not been ascertained, No. 2 train arriving on the scene of accident shortly afterwards, the dead and wounded were put on board and taken back to Indianapolis. The wrecked train was not a vestibule. Nearly all the killed were in the sleeper, which was among the first of the cars to take fire. Four cars are almost totally consumed. Total casualities, six dead and nine-teen injured, several of whom are seriously hurt and likely to die. Investigation reveals that the accident was due to the spreading of rails about one hundred and fifty feet from the trestle. The repairing of this section of the trestle. The repairing of this section of the track was done Saturday.

IN FAVOR OF THE STATE.

Important Decision of the Supreme Court
Rendered Yesterday.

WASHINGTON, January 27.—Justice Bradley today delivered the opinion of the United States supreme court affirming the judgment of the United States circuit court for the eastern district of North Carolina in the caseof William E. Christian, et al., appellants, vs.
the Atlantic and North Carolina Railread Co., et al. This case is of importance, not only in of William E. Christian, et al., appellants, vs. the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad Co., et al. This case is of importance, not only in the amount of money directly involved, but in the important constitutional questions decided.

Of late the number of cases involving the question of liability of a state to be sued have been brought before the supreme court, notably the Hans case, from Louisiana, in which it is said $11,000-000 are involved, and another North Carolina bond case involving from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. The state of North Carolina subscribed for $1,006,600 of the capital stock of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad company, organized for the purpose of building a railroad from Beaufort to Goldsborough. The bonds were issued by the state trease money to pay for this stock and the state not only pleged its public faith as security for the redemption of the bonds, but in addition pledged all the stock held by the state in the railroad company. This pledging act also provided that any dividend which may be declared on the stock held by the state shall be applied to the payment of interest accruing on the bonds, but unit such dividends. may be declared on the stock held by the state shall be applied to the payment of interest accruing on the bonds, but until such dividends may be declared interest on bonds was to be paid out of public money in the state treasury. Christian holds ten of the bonds issued by the state, and as there had been no interest paid since 1868, he sought to have the bonds declared a lien upon the stock owned and held by the state of North Carolina in the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad company.

The state of North Carolina, says Justice Bradley, is only partly really concerned. The whole proceeding is virtually against her. The object of the suit is to get possession of her property, to sequester her dividends, if any there may be, and, to compel the payment of them to complainants, to seize and sell railroad stocks of which she is in sole possession. Though it be plainants, to seize and sell railread stocks of which she is in sole possession. Though it be true that the bondholders have a lien on dividends and stock, it is not a lien that can be enforced without a suit, and that a suitagainst the state. The court is of opinion that a state is an indefensible party to any proceeding in equity in which its property is sought to be taken and subjected to the payment of its obligations. The judgment of the lower court in favor of the state is, therefore, arffimed.

FIRE AT A NAVY YARD.

Two Large Buildings Burn at Kittery Navy Yard. PORTSMOUTH, N. H., January 27.—The largest fire that ever occurred at Kittery navy yard broke out this morning, at 8 o'clock, in the boiler room of building No. 45, occupied by the construction and repair department as machine and iron-plates shops. The fire quickly extended along the shafting and oily timbers into the building No. 45 occupied as a obers into the building No. 45 occupied as fimbers into the building No. 45 occupied as a futtock mill, and the workmen were obliged to jump through the windows to escape. A general alarm was rung in, and four steamers belonging to the navy yard department, were quickly on hand. Despite the efforts of the firemen and marine guard the fire extended into the machine shops, and help was then called for from this city. The steamer Kearsage and hose company were immediately sent over the ferry on a steamboat, and with those re-inforcements the fire was confined to two buildings. The two buildings were built in 1845-6, and constructed in a "stilt" fashion, the granite pillars being set upon a heavy foundation, and the rest of the building constructed of wood. During the war the buildings were remodelled and connected, making a building 400 feet in length and 65 feet in width. The loss is expected to reach $100,000. Buildings Nos. 45 and 46, with contents, were entirely destroyed. No. 45 was full of sawing and planing machinery, and 46 was a ship fitting shop. Among the property destroyed was the furniture of the Jundata, now under repair, and part of the furniture of the Lancaster, and a large amount of stores. The loss aggregates a little over $100,000, according to appraisement; no insurance. futtock mill, and the workmen were obliged to

PASSENGERS ORDERED BELOW DECK

To Prevent Their Being Washed Overboar -The "Loch Moldart" Goes Ashore and Thirty of Her Crew Perish.

LONDON, January 27 .- The Cunard steamer Cephalonia, from Boston, January 18th, for Liverpool, arrived at Queenstown today. During the passage she encountered a gale that was so severe that the passangers were kept below for two days, it being feared that if they were permitted above decks they would be carried away by the seas that came aboard. The third engineer was thrown to the deck by a wave, and one of his arms were broken, and he sustained other injuries.

The British ship Loch Moidart, from Pizagua, November 2d, for Hamburg, is ashore at Callantsoog, Holland. Thirty of her crew were washed overboard after she struck, and all perished.

The British ship Janet Cowan, before reported having returned to Plymouth, is in distress. She lost a number of sails when off the fisle of Wight last Thursday. Five of her crew were lost. Although the ship was almost dismasted, the remainder of the crew succeeded in navigating her to Plymouth.

THE REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

They Consider the New Code of Rules-The Washington, January 27.—The republican caucus which was called to meet at 8 o'clock, met promptly at that hour. Mr. Hendersou, of Illinois, as chairman, called the caucus (which was fully attended) to order. The first hour of the session was devoted to the discussion of the proposed new code of rules. Speaker Reed entered into a detailed explanation of the changes proposed to be made in the old code. From time to time he was interrupted by questions as to the probable effect of the particular rules, to which, in each case, he fully replied. More than an hour was consumed in this way, and the greatest harmony characterized the proceedings. It was evident, however, according to Mr. Reed's statement, that the new code could not be ready for the action of the house for several days to come, even should it be desirable to report it earlier. Moreover there was an opinion entertained by many to the effect that more positive progress should be achieved in the disposition of the contested election cases without rules than with their aid. It was felt by some of these members that after a safe working majority had been secured under the operations of the general parliamentary law, the rigidity of the new code might be relaxed with benefit, and the republicans might thus be relieved from the necessity of enacting a code which in time might, perphaps, be felt by themselves in its full severity.

Having thus, practically, reached a decision that the election cases shall be considered before a code of rules is adopted, the question of ways and means arose and there was a long discussion which was simply a reflex of individual views as to the possibility of securing and maintaining a quorum of republicans to meet the democratic opposition, which was fully expected would take the shape of a refusal to vote. The fact that it was considered necessary to discuss this phase of the case is regarded as an indication that the speaker hardly contemplates adopting the radical course of counting as present, members not voting, in order to secure a quorum.

But nevertheless, the election case of Smith vs. Jackson will be called up Wednesday, and fully debated from a double motive. The first, to lay the foundation for the speedy disposition of the other contests, and second, to gain time in which to secure the attendance of absent members. the changes proposed to be made in the old code. From time to time he was interrupted position of the other contests, and second, to gain time in which to secure the attendance of absent members.

A resolution was adopted by the caucus, offered by Mr. Rowe, chairman of the elections committee, as follows:

Resolved. That it is the sense of this caucus that every republican member of the house should remain in the city, except in case of sickness; and that all members should remain in this hall during the time the house is in session, unless prevented by sickness.

There was some show of opposition to the proposed changes in the rules, which tend to stop filibustering, by Mr. Anderson, of Kansas, and Mr. Cheadle, of Indiana. Mr. Cheadle, however, signified his intention to fall in line with his party, and there are indications that Mr. Anderson will do likewise.

A EIG STRIKE IN BIRMINGHAM. The Rolling Mill Men Go Out in Large Num

BIEMINGHAM, Ala., January 27.—[Special. A strike was inaugurated at the Birmingham rolling mill today, which promises to be a long and bitter one before the trouble is adjusted. Four hundred men went out when the day shift went off, and as many more are expected to follow at the end of the night shift. Over one thousand men, including helpers, are employed in the mill, and they will all be thrown out of work, and the mill shut down. The strike is caused by the men trying to get the mill into the Amalgamated association. For five years the mill has paid the association scales, but has employed both unian and non-union men. Saturday night a meeting of the men was held, and they resolved to have the company sign the next amalgamated scale and enter the association. Today the managers notified the men that they could not make the mill a union one, and they walked out. The officers of the company say they will not yield to the demands of the men, and the latter appear equally firm. WORSE THAN EVER.

The Snow on the Pacific Railroad Has Been Transformed Into Ice.

San Francisco, January 27.—Railroad officials at Sacramento succeeded in having communication for a short time late last night with the Truckee office on the eastern slope of the Sierra mountains, where it was least med that the snow was sixteen feet deep on the taack between that place and the station five miles west of there. The late rains followed by freezing weather, had transformed this into ice, which will have to be chopped out and shoveled away by hand. It is understood that the railroad company has endeavored to secure telegraphic communication with Reno in order that a few at least of the west bound trains that arq there can be ordered back to Ogden and their passengers transferred to the Southern route. The situation remans the same on the road to Oregon.

The water in the streams and rivers of California is receding, but in some places slowly. From Colusa, in the western part of Sacramento valley, reports come that for miles north and south of there, farms are covered with water to the depth of from two to six feet. The loss throughout the state by the flood can not be even approximately estimated at this time, but it seems certain, will not be as great as at first estimated. The railroad companies did splendid work yesterday in getting the tracks leading out of this city repaired.

ran it.? On the front of an old brick buildat the corner of Broad and Walton streets still appears the dim and ancient lettering of the old sign of the paper.

In 1883 Colonel Thornton leased the paper to Colonel Moore, through Mr. A. L. Harris, and understood at the time that the lessee had lately sold a $5,000,000 gold mine and was going to run a great paper in Atlanta. Colonel Thornton left for Chicago and the west, and while there received news that the paper had suspended. He immediately returned to Atlanta and began an action in trover for the ceovery of the property.

The paper kept changing around, and three lawsuits resulted severally in favor of Colonel Thornton, and the case went to the supreme court. The court affirmed the decision of the court below requiring the bondsmen of Mr. John L. Conley who had come into possession of the material of the paper, to pay over the money. The bondsmen were Colonel A. E. Buck and Mr. M. E. Maher, and the amount called for was over $7,500.

Yesterday this sum was paid over to Colonel Thornton, and everything pertaining or appertaining to the Post-Appeal was fully settled and adjusted. Colonel Thornton returns to his home in Kensee, Kentucky, this evening. He came here expecting to spend three or four days, but has been here four weeks, during which time he has completed a good many other business transactions successfully, so that his stay has been pleasant financially, as well as socially

LEGAL GRIST.

What Was Done in Some of Macon's Tribunals of Justice.

Tribunals of Justice.

Macon, Ga., January 27.—[Special.]—Judge A. L. Miller, of the Macon circuit, arrived from Houston this morning, and has been in chambers all day hearing cases and signing orders. Nothing of great public importance was done. Court was adjourned until February 8th, when cases will be set.

The grand jury reconvened today with W. W. Collins as foreman. Owing to the indisposition of Solicitor-General Felton there was very little business before the body. The various committees of the jury expect to be ready to report on next Thursday.

A few cases were disposed of in the city court today. The fine of Joe Wolf for selling liquor to minors was reduced from $500 to $300.

The fine of Lewis Butler for assault and battery was reduced from fifty to forty dollars. Eli Turner was found guilty of simple larceny and sentenced to pay a fine of fifty dollars, to include costs, or serve five months on the chaingang.

John Hilliard was found guilty of carrying concealed weapons, and was sentenced to four months on the chaingang, or pay a fine of fifty dollars, to include costs.

THE RECEIVER REFUSED.

Judge Clarke Declines to Interfere in the Fetzer & Pharr Case.

The application for receiver for the clothing establishment of Fetzer & Pharr came up for hearing before Judge Clarke yesterday.

Mayor Glenn appeared for the defendants and Mayson & Hill and W. R. Brown for the retitioners

petitioners.

Judge Clarke, after hearing the arguments, refused to appoint a receiver. The attorneys for the applicants say they will probably appeal the decision and ask the supreme court to appoint some one to disburse the assets of the firm.

The grounds upon which the application for receiver were made charge that the firm has entered into a scheme to defeat its creditors, claiming that it, some days ago, executed three mortgages to New York parties covering all the assets, notes and accounts; that these mortgages were given with the understanding that when all other creditors had been compromised with, they were to be null and void.

The mortgages amounted to about $14,600.

ROBBED BY BROTHERS.

A SINGULAR CASE OF BURGLARY IN WARRENTON.

The Brothers of a Prominent Merchant Arrested for the Burglary of His Store—The Latest Developments.

WARRENTON, Ga., January 27 .- [Special.]turday the streets of Warrenton were growd ed with people. Late in the afternoon the whole town was thrown into confusion by the port that a young white man by the name of hn Howell had been arrested by Detective Shackleford for breaking open his brother's store and robbing his safe of $200.

HOWELL CONFESSES.

Howell confessed the crime, and implicated In the deed one other white man and three begroes, all of whom were promptly arrested by Sheriff Shurley, and brought up for a pre iminary trial, but not being able to secure all the witnesses the prisoners were held under a $200 bond each until Monday. The white man implicated in the trime and one of the negroes promptly gave bond and was released. Howell and two of the negroes implicated, failing to give bond, were incarcerated in the county jail. Your correspondent interviewed Young Howell in his cell. He says he did not know of the plan until the night of the robbing to rob his brother's safe, and says that he did not get any money for his part of the work. He refused to talk much on the subject.

ANOTHER BROTHER ARRESTED. This morning A. V. Howell, another brother of Mr. F. L. Howell, was arrested on the charge of being implicated in the crime of bur glarizing the store of Mr. Howell. John Howell, the younger brother, now says that there was only three connected in the crime—himby all that young Howell has told the truth about the matter. Ashley Howell, John Howell and Dick Scruggs now rest behind the bars of the jail. Mr. F. L. Howell is a mem-ber of the town council, and is a straight-forward, upright business gentleman and is sym-pathized with by all.

How a Youthful Burglar Was Captured in Coweta County.

NEWNAN, Ga., January 27.—[Special.]—For ome time past Mr. J. T. Kirby, who owns large store on his plantation, eight miles southwest of Newnan, has been missing various articles from the same, and concluded to see if he could not catch the thief.

To that end, a few nights ago, Mr. Kirby and his son blew out the lights of the dwelling and closed the store. They secreted themselves hear by, armed with a shotgun each, and awaited developments. About 9 o'clock they saw George Cox, a young white boy about fitteen years of age, enter the store, after having walked around the dwelling, evidently to see if they had retired. If they had retired.

HE LOSES HIS GRIP. When he got securely into the building they ralled to him to come out, when he appeared at the window with a pistol in his hand, which they made him throw down on the ground and rome out. He then confessed that he was the party who had been robbing the store from time to time, taking knives, tobacco and other articles, including ten dollars which he took from the money drawer a few weeks ago. They brought him to Newnan, where he will remain in jail until the grand jury meets at jail until the grand jury meets at

THE LICENSE REVOKED.

Singular Social Event in Johnson County. SANDERSVILLE, Ga., January 27.—[Special.] Today Mr. R. C. Cox, a well-known Washing-ton county citizen residing near Oconee, called at the Progress office and left the following warning notice for publication: Office of J. M. Hightower, Ordinary of Johnson County, Wrightsville, Ga.: This is to certify that one Morgan Boyd, through false representations, obtained license to marry Ella Fairy Cox, of Washington county, Ga., and upon such proof to me being made, I, John M. Hightower, ordinary in and for said county of Johnson, do hereby revoke said license as null and void. Given under my hand and seal of office January 25, 1890.

J. M. Hightower.
Ordinary of Johnson County.

Mr. Cox stated that he did not know where Boyd hailed from, but that he formed the acquaintance of his daughter and proposed marriage. Boyd evidently thought his advances were met with approval, for last week he procured a marriage license from Judge High-tower, ordinary of Johnson county, and, so Mr. Cox avers, intends to coerce the young lady into marriage. She re-cently refused to have anything to do with Boyd, and he is now awaiting an opportunity to communicate with her, and if possible, effect the marriage. Meanwhile Mr. Cox is on the lookout for Boyd, and the meeting is likely to produce lively results. Ugly rumors are afloat in regard to Boyd. Miss Cox is safely domiciled under the parental roof, and intends to remain there. Boyd's whereabouts are not known, but he is doubtless quietly waiting for something to turn up in his

THE NEGRO WAS MAD,

And Ran the Town with an Uplifted Ax

Striking Viciously. ATHENS, Ga., January 27 .- [Special.] Athens came very near having a fatal tragedy this afternoon, and a crazy negro was the cause. About 4 o'clock John Marbles, a demented darky, who was once in the lunation asylum, entered the drug store of John Cranford & Co. and bought some potash. As he went out he ran against Dr. Crawford, who ordered him to get out of his way. The negro cursed him, but he paid no attention to him, as he knew he was crazy. At this juncture Mr. Louis Braden, who clerks in the drug store, came out with a board in his hand, and, in a jesting manner, struck the negro a light lick across the shoulders. The negro turned upon him, perfectly infuriated, and raised his ax, which he had in his hand. Mr. Braden ran from him, and the negro started after him. When about three feet apart, the negro raised his ax and brought it down with terrific force. It barely grazed Braden's head, and buried itself in the solid brick sidewalk. The negro kept going, and was struck in the asylum, entered the drug store of John Cranand buried itself in the solid brick sugman. The negro kept going, and was struck in the head with a brick thrown by Dr. Crawford. This did not stop him, and he ran half a block before he was stopped. Messrs. Charley O'Farrell and Tom Hunnicutt caught the ax and wrested it from him, after a severe tussle. He was turned over to the police, who lodged him in the calaboose, after much difficulty.

House. ATHENS, Ga., January 27. - [Special.] Fifty students without a boarding house. That s what appeared on the university campus this morning, when Rev. W. R. Stillwell, manager of the dormitory, closed his boarding house and determined to vacate—and this is how it happened: On last night, at the supper table, several biscuits were thrown and glasses broken, and other acts of disorder manifested. Mr. Stillwell said that such had been kept up for some time, and that he could not afford to keep his family where such disorder was prevalent, and the boys then kicked about the fare, and the result was that they agreed to disagree. Mr. Stillwell took an inventory of his possessions this morning, and notified the chancellor that he would have to leave. The boys, consequently, had to make a raid on the hotels and restaurants for something to eat. The chancellor said that he wishes the boys to remain at the dormitory if they so desire, but that they must keep order. house and determined to vacate—and this is

JACKSON M'HENRY'S TONGUE.

It Wags to the Amusement of a Crowd of Colored Brethren Last Night. The Atlanta contingent to the Afro-American convention in Chicago, with the exception of Bill Pledger, has returned.

Last night the colored citizens held a love feast in Holbrook's hall, on Broad street.

Jackson McHenry and others who were with him at Chicago, were the star attractions.

But McHenry outshone them all, and for an hour and a half fiddled on a high string in the ears of a half hundred colored brethren, who sat in "tater rows" around the hall listen ing to his glowing account of how he and Bill Pledger had captured the town. He branched off to social equality, and the Hedger had captured the town.

He branched off to social equality, and the way it works up there.

"Niggers up thar is jes ez good ez white folks. Yo' don't have a p'laceman standin' round to run yo' in every time yo' ask fer somethin' ter eat in a decent place. An' if yo' want er short-haird gal, yo' can git her, an' of yer wants er long-haird one, yo' can easy find her. That's the way dey do it up dar. Dem niggers is free. Down heah, wen de white folks hab er dance, yo' sees de nigger fiddlin' fer 'em, and callin' fer 'em. When we had our ball up dar, it was different. De white men fiddled fer de niggers and fiddled and called till de sweat rolled off 'em. Dey fiddled fer us, cause we paid 'em fur hit. Did you ebber see dat down here? No, sah!"

Before he closed he asked the negroes of Atlanta to stand by Bill Pledger, and give him a new suit of clothes when he returns, and put a gold chain on him and a new walking stick in his hand, then send him back to Washington, so he could walk up and down the streets, and tell how the negroes in At-

at that time Sheffield was on a boom and telephones wires were stretched promiscuously until the exchange grew fat. Then Langworthy secured charge of the place and with his heefs upon the manager's table watched his operators respond to the hellos.

Several months ago Langworthy's absence was noticed in Sheffield and when the exchange began searching for the trouble it was ascertained that the manager had broken the connection and with the break about $1,100 had disappeared. Then a search was made for the missing man and money and by detectives they were followed to Canada. By some means Langworthy was induced to cross the line and begin his return to Sheffield. He will reach that place today and then he will have made his last circuit.

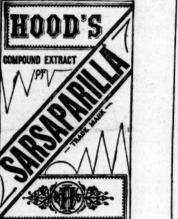

Langworthy married a most estimable young lady in Atlanta, whom he left in Sheffield when he skipped.

The Purest and the Best.

This is an age of adulteration and cheap goods. Most every article has its counterpart in something cheaper. Groceries are adulterated in almost every conceivable form. Take sugar, for in-

Fine Havana Cigars

We have lately increased our facilities and are we have lately increased our facilities and are prepared to supply the constantly growing de-mand of our fine Havana cigars. Both our large Coronas and the small size Coronas challenge the finest brands imported from Cuba. Smokers should bear in mind distinctly that no fine Havana eigar is fit to smoke unless it is made by hand. Having an experience of twenty years in the business we can say the Spanish method of making cigars by hand is perfect; in fact, it is an art in the highest sense of the word. In making recently our annual purchase of Havana leaf tobacco, we took particular pains to seclect just such qualities of leaf suited especially for this market, namely: a thin silky leaf; rich in color, not too light or too dark; mild and sweet in taste, coupled with that brilliancy of fragrance in taste, coupled with that brilliancy of fragrance which is an exclusive property of the very best Cuban leaf tobacco. There is nothing bitter about this genuine Vuelta Ahaja leaf; it has not the slighest touch of rankness, and mark well, it does not make you dry in the throat neither does it bite your tongue when you smoke it.

Our cigars are for sale in all mst-class drug stores, cigar stores, saloons and restaurants and the trade is supplied from the factory at No 2 Edgewood avenue, corner Peachere street, by A. L. CUESTA.

DEPOSITORY -- LOWRY BANKING COMPANY.

The charter granted under the laws of Georgia, authorizes this association to do business in any state of the union or foreign country and to act as agent and trustee for insurance companies, savings banks and other financial corporations and individuals for the purpose of investing their funds in southern real estate mortgages.

It will establish local branch offices in every county for the convenience of its members and for the purpose of loaning its funds. Its plans are liberal to its members and upon the mutual co-operative long time and at low rate of interest. Desirious of meeting the views and wants of all its members, the association will issue stock in four classes as follows:

CLASS A-Payments 50 cents a month, estimated to mature in 8 years. Cost of a loan of $1,000 is $1.50 per month.

50 per month. CLASS B—Payments 60 cents a month, estimated to mature in 7 years. Cost of a loan of $1,000 is $16 per month.
CLASS C-Payments $1 per month, estimated to mature in 51-2 years. Cost for the loan of $1,000

CLASS C—Payments $1 per month, estimated to mature in 51-2 years. Cost for the loan of $1,000 is $20 per month.

CLASS D—Farmers' Class. Either the above classes, (A, B, or C.) Payments for six months in the year, but double the monthly payments, beginning in October and ending in April. This is for the convenience of our farmers who as a rule can best pay in the fall and winter months. The maturity value of all shares is $100. ity value of all shares is $100.

THE SUNDAY CONSTITUTION $2 A YEAR.
SENT TO ANY ADDRESS.

ATLANTA, GA., JANUARY 28, 1890. Ingalls and the Race Issue. THE CONSTITUTION has already com mented somewhat briefly on the speech recently made in the senate on the race issue by Mr. Ingalls, but its most striking feature was not touched on. In the beginning of his speech, before he had taken on more steam than he could well manage, Mr. Ingalls set forth the main difficulty that stands in the way of a solution of the problem. He alludes to the matter calmly, if not judicially, and remarks that "it is sufficient to say that, either by instinct or design, the Caucasian race, at every step of its progress from barbarism to enlightenment, has refused to mingle its blood or to assimilate with the two other great human families (the Mongolian and the African), and has persistently rejected adulteration.'

This is very frankly stated, for Mr. Ingalls plainly intended that it should be the text of his discourse. It contains, indeed, the gist of the whole matter. It is only another way of stating the historical fact that the whites have never permitted themselves to be ruled by an alien race, and that they never will permit. There is nothing new about the proposition, and nothing startling. It is one of the commonplace facts that is understood and appreciated of all men-especially white men; but republicans have not heretofore been in the habit of giving it emphasis, except in their own relations with the negro.

Mr. Ingalls, after taking his text, wandered away from it into the domain of partisan politics, and he made such a mess of it all that he is taken to task by Editor Medill, of the Chicago Tribune, who insists that, from the point of view of persistent Caucasian prejudice against alien races, which is the vital one, the Ingalls speech does not hang well together. With respect to the matter of race prejudice the Kansas senator takes more advanced ground than any southern man has yet taken, and then goes on to say, when he has become heated with his topic, that the south, in order to please the republican politicians, shall break the Caucasian precedent and permit themselves to be ruled by the negroes, where the negroes are in the majority. Even the Chicago Tribune perceives that such a conclusion is absurd and impossible.

The remedy that Mr. Ingalls proposes is "justice," and it may be a good or bad remedy, according to the point of view. Would it be justice to permit the negroes to take charge of affairs where they have the mafority, and run riot with the rights and property of the whites, and bring confusion to states and communities? We can see no justice in such a condition of affairs-not even justice to the negro, for he ought to be as much interested in good government as the white man. Was it justice to the negro to permit corrupt and unscrupulous men to use him as a tool in devastating the southern states and ruining southern communities, as was the case during the reconstruction period? If this is the kind of justice Senator Ingalls is talking about the south must beg to be excused, and it will be joined in making this excuse as emphatic as possible by the thousands of northern capitalists who have secured valuable investments and property interests in this section.

On the other hand, is it not treating the negroes with justice to give them the benefits of good government, such as they have in Georgia, where their condition is all that the most hopeful friend of the race could ask for? The attitude of Mr. Ingalls is naturally that of a republican who is drum ming for more republican votes: but there is something more than a political issue in this question. It touches the most vital interests of the south at every point. It is a question that cannot be disposed of or settled by a partisan majority in congress.

The Pan-American Congress. Some unenlightened southern papers are laughing at the labors of the Pan-American congress. The remorseless paragrapher has almost made the matter a national joke and a few persons of serious bent have actually criticized the government for the moderate expense incurred.

We are persuaded that southern papers would laugh less and work more if they knew what they were talking about Through this congress the present government is carrying out a great work upon lines projected by the democratic administation. The greatness of the work makes its accomplishment slow, but there is every reason to believe that progress is being made. Certainly we of the south, who are most to be benefitted, should not throw obststacles in

The chief object of the congress is to cultivate closer commercial relations between the United States and the nations to the south of us. Standing closer to them in location and sympathies than any nation on the face of the globe, we are steadily losing in the balance of trade with them, while remote

England is making enormous gains. This is today the most inviting field of foreign commerce on the globe. The territory is nearly twice as large as Europe and two and a half times as large as the United States. Within the last twenty-five years its population has grown from thirty-nine to fifty-one millions and is increasing more rapidly, in some parts, than ours. When the old world overflow gives it our present density of eighteen people to the square mile, this great empire will be the home of a hundred and fifty millions. With a population of vastly greater productiveness and purchasing power, this territory should to the United States a customer more magnificent than India has ever been to England, They are willing to be our customers, and give us product for product, such as we dedesire, but we have hardly any communication with them, and they have for years offered us heavy bonuses to establish direc steamship communication with their ports. They are modeling their institutions after ours, to a great extent, and one nation, the Argentine Republic, has done us the honor to call itself the United States of South America. But in spite of this favora ble disposition toward us England is getting the lion's share of the trade.

In their dealings with the nations south of us, including Mexico, Central America, the West Indies and South America, the four great commercial nations of the world divide the trade, as follows:

The United States sells the America $82,000,000 and buys of them $200,000,000; Great Britain sells them $152,000,000 and buys $97,000,000; France sells them $90,000,-000 and buys $108,000,000, and Germany sells them $13,000,000 and buys $22,000,000.

England has steadily gained in the balance of trade, while France and the United States, though increasing their exports thither, have increased their imports thence so much faster that the balance has steadily grown against them. In 1860 Great Britain sold the Americas south of us $87,000,000 and bought of them $101,000,000. She now buys $97,000,000 of their goods and sells them $152,000,000—draining them of $55, 000,000 every year. Meantime the United States is paying them a balance of $118,000. 000 a year. This shows where Uncle Sam's shoe pinches. Now to bring about a healthy trade with the American nations, the first thing to do is to find out what we have that they want and what they have that we want, and the form in which these products can best be exchanged. After that it is simply a matter of trading between the two nations and the commercial instinct of the American business man may be relied upon to do that part of the work. This work of bringing the American nations in sight of each other's products was begun by the United States commission that made a tour of South America a few years ago, and the work is to be carried forward through the sojourn of the Pan-American congress and the All Americas exposition of 1892. A few years ago we sent a commission to spy out their country: now they have come to look at ours. and two years hence the products of all American nations will be callected at the world's fair. Thus the ponderous work goes on and the results are bound to be great in the end.

The south lies nearest to this great commer cial empire and through our ports the traffic with those nations must come and go to the great west. The north is active and has already seized the opportunity for first impressions. We cannot afford to treat the congress as a joke. We cannot afford to omit any courtesy to these distinguished foreigners, who come here in good faith, upor our invitation, to consider what will promote the interests of this country as well as their own.

Developing a Georgia Industry.

THE CONSTITUTION is glad to see the Southern Railway and Steamship association making a strong effort to get such western rates on Georgia melons that the business may grow to its full size. The recommendation of the southern railways, backed by the strong showing of the melon growers, cannot fail to impress the western railroads with the absolute necessity of the eight-mile rate to the full development of the industry.

This business now amounts to about a nillion dollars a year, and the larger part of the proceeds goes to the railroads. With a railroad policy of encouragement, it will grow to three or four millions, and of that the railroads will get much more than half. This is a business proposition, submitted to business men.

The Production of Ramie Fibre.

We alluded the other day to some experiments in the production of ramie fibre by Mr. Walter T. Forbes, of this city, who has invented a cheap and quick process of re-His experiments with ramie have been eminently successful, the product bearing close relation, in gloss and fineness, to raw silk.

According to the Boston Herald, ramie fibre produced by a process which is still in the experiment stage, has recently been carded and spun at Providence. The Providence experiments have been carried on by a Mr. Tappan, and the immediate result. according to the Boston Transcript, is the subdivision of the ramie to its ultimate cell, which renders it pliable and available for use on any ordinary wool-working machin-

The precise nature of these Providence experiments are not fully set forth: there seems to be some degree of secresy connected with them; but we are of the opinion that the process will not prove to be as cheap and as effectual as that which Mr. Forbe has invented. The gloss, delica got elasticity of the product of Mr. Forbes's experiments cannot be improved on.

Atlanta must have the credit of solving the ramie problem.

The Republican Programme.

In his dispatch of yesterday our Washngton correspondent clearly outlines the republican programme, and, as usual, it proves to be not only unpatriotic, but despicable. It is the intention of the republicans to revive and renew the spirit of sectional hate. and they propose to carry out their plan by goading the democrats to say something in the discussion of the negro question that can be used as campaign material.

We are of the opinion that the democrats can very well afford to let the republicans show their hands and carry out their policy in this business of sectionalism. The applause and commendation which the people without regard to party, gave to the pacification policy of Mr. Grady show the real sentiment of the country, and if the republicans ignore this sentiment, they will have t take the consequences. The policy of sectionalism that Mr. Matthew Quay has marked out for his party has the smell of graveyard mold on it. It will not be endorsed by the people. That is the satisfaction the democrats can take out of the programme.

As to protesting against the imperial methods of Speaker Reed, we believe the democrats would commend themselves and their party to the country by resisting to the utmost. Men lose nothing in the long run by having the courage of their convictions. The democrats have little to lose in any game where the republican sectionalists will be compelled to uncover their unpatriotic policy. In 1865, General Tecumseh Sherman was not as fond of the negro as some of his friends

THE BOSTON papers state that the Grady monument in Atlanta will take the shape of a nospital. This is a mistake. The monu will be built, and so will the hospital.

THE DEATH of Riddleberger removes Ma-one's ancient enemy. There was a certain independence about Riddleberger that is pleasing in a public man, but the best that can be said about his political career is to sa nothing.

THE CHICAGO INTER-OCEAN, a bitter re publican paper, has lost confidence in Foraker. Editor Halstead, however, clings to him with all the strength of an ardent and a simple nature.

Ir is said that the German papers don't like the Samoan treaty. If this is the case, it must be a poor affair indeed.

NEW YORK wants the Christopher Colur bus fair postponed. This would be a good idea if Columbus had postponed the discovery had postponed the discovery of America.

BEN BUTTERWORTH, of Ohio, ought to go in the show business. The style in which he exhibited the political remains of Foraker in front of the public is beyond all praise.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

THE January number of Dixie is out. This the first number under the management of Messre Alex. P. Hull and Frederic J. Cooke. It contain an able editorial by Mr. Hull, who replies to Mr Edward Atkinson's argument on New England a the future site of the cotton industry There ar special articles on the man ufacture of wood pulp, on milling electric wires and a variety of industria subjects besides crisp editorials covering a wide range of topics. An interesting and valuable feature is the concise record of development and construction. Among the editorials is a handsome tribute to Mr. Grady, whose great work in the development of the south is specially empha-sized. Typographical excellence continues to be a feature of the magazine. THE FIRST NUMBER of the Dixie Doctor, under the editorial management of Dr. Harry Huzza, has made its appearance. An attractive feature of the Doctor is its conciseness. This is something rare in professional periodicals, and makes the matter readable, even to a layman. The initia number contains accounts of difficult surgical op erations and other matters which will de be of great interest to the profession. graphical beauty of the magazine is a hand evidence of the good workmanship and good taste of the publisher, Mr. Campbell, of The Consti-

THE FIRST OFFICIAL VISIT TO BE MADE TODAY.

The Trustees Will Have a Hard Journe Through the Mud to See a Forest of Beams—How the Work Is Progressing.

At 9 o'clock this morning the board of trustees of the soldiers home will meet at Judge Calhoun's office.

Their purpose is to visit the home, which is being erected and at the same time to decide a very important question.

The original plans and the contract which with Austin & Boylston require that a shingle roof shall be placed over building. It has since been suggested that as there are thirteen chimneys piercing the roof at different points, the danger of fire with such a roof would be very great.

The building is situated in the midst of a grove of trees, and dry leaves will inevitably collect in the gutters built to carry off the water. During dry seasons a spark falling among these leaves would surely ignite the shingles and a conflagration might be the re-The directors will, therefore, consider the advisability of altering the original plans and of substituting slate for the shingles. The trustees will not have altogether pleasant journey, as the wagons employed in carting the material used in building the home have cut the roads up in such a way that traveling over them is anything but a pleasant undertaking. After leaving the stone pavements they will find mud, and after reaching the other side of Grants park their august ones will receive a thorough shaking up.

On reaching the site of the new building, ones will receive a thorou he trustees will be greeted by a view of a orest of beams standing up like the ribs of a mammoth skeleton. Although Messrs. Austin & Boylston have used the greatest energy, and a great deal of work has been done, building is just in that condition when, to the uninitiated, the task of bringing a beautiful home out of such chaos seems an impossibility.

On a closer examination they will discover that the state work alone was a big job. In some places the foundation is sixteen feet high built of stone, and thoroughly cemented on the outside to keep the rain from de stroving the mortar on the insides.

Besides the stone work the chimneys are fairly under way, and through the labyrinth of upright poles, great red brick structures ar rising which will, when they are completed, be the chimneys. The foundation of the great fire-place in the hall is also in position, though none of the brick work has yet been done.

The south and a small part of the east ends present the most nearly completed appearance because the inner sheeting has been placed in position. All the work accomplished has been done since the middle of December, and all the lumber used up to date was collected from the lumber yards of Atlanta while waiting for the mills to fill the orders which were given out as soon as Austin & Boylston awarded the contract.

Mr. Boylston will explain to the trustees that his purpose is to keep the brick masons, the carpenters and the joiners all at about th same stage of the work. By so doing the chimneys are braced by the beams and they in turn lend a solidity to the entire structure When the first story is nearly completed th framework of the memorial chanel and the dining rooms which are only one story high

Mr. Boylston claims that by the last day of Mr. Boylston claims that by the last day of February he will have the entire building roofed in, and hopes to have it completed by the 1st of June, although his contract allows him until the 1st of July.

It is probable that the trustees will be thoroughly satisfied when they examine into work which has been accomplished and have all the difficulties of the undertaking explained technomics.

The report of the chairman, M. C. Kiser, of the special finance committee, in regard to the collection of the Davis Wildow land Orphans' collection of the Davis Widow and Orphans' fund in the city and county, showed that the fund in the city and county, showed that the mount collected and turned over was $3,530.30. Of this fund President W. L. Calhoun has been appointed Governor Godran treasurer for the state, and so far the fund amounts to over $6,000 and is increasing every day.

Dr. Amos Fox reported the death and burial by the association, of Mr. W. H. Benton, another veteran who has crossed the river.

Six new members, whose applications were received at last meeting, were elected by acclamation, and nine applications were read.

Aresolution introduced.

The following resolution was introduced by Colonel John Milledge:
Whereas, A quarter of a century have passed since the war ended, on the 26th day of next April, (Memorialnay), and Whereas, Here at the capitol of Georgia, He buried more confederate dead, than any other point in the state. It seems peculiarly proper that the next Memorial day should be celebrated in Atlanta with more than usual solemity and ceremony; therefore, be it Resolved, That a special committee of seven be appointed to make the necessary arrangements in preparation for the occasion.

In support of that resolution, Captain Milledge made a short speech in favor of endeavoring to bringing a large delegation of veterans from each division of the state, and having a grand gathering of the veterans of the state on that day.

The committee appointed was Colonel John Milledge, chairman; W. A. Hemphill, L. P. Thomas, H. C. Hamilton, D. G. Wyly, George T. Fry and E. P. Black, and the committee was requested to meet at the State library at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Colonel George T. Fry offered a resolution that members desiring to retire from the association, for the purpose of joining another, after having paid all dues and being in good standing, they be provided with a certificate to that effect. It was carried.

A resolution was offered by Major J. F. Edwards to the effect that the name of no member who has not paid his dues, or who is not exempt from dues, be placed on the roster. It was stated, incident to that, that the books are always open at the office of Dr. Amos Fox, treasurer, for the receiving of

Believing it would be a good idea for the association to adopt some plan for the purpose of creating a widows' and orphans' fund to be paid to such beneficiaries on the death of any member of our association, it is therefore,

Resolved, That a committee of five, consisting of Amos Fox, chairman; J. H. Ketner, G. S. Frior. Harry Kraus, J. S. Ponchon and W. B. Burke, be hereby appointed to formulate a plan by which such a fund can be created.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

The following fesolution was introduced by Captain Frank M. Myers:

Be it resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the chair to examine the above spoken of likeness, and if the same be approved of by them, that they be authorized to buy the same for this association at a cost not to exceed twenty-five dollars.

The resolution was cordially received and adopted, and Captain F. M. Myers, Judge J. Gadsden King and Mr. George Hines were appointed as the committee.

Gadsden King and Mr. George Hines were appointed as the committee.

Mr. W. H. Haveran, of the Confederate Veteran Magazine, appeared before the association and made a rattling speech, complimenting the veterans, and setting forth the fact that the Veteran is here to print the true history of the war as told by the old soldiers, and to do everything possible in behalf of the veterans. The speech was received with applause, and Rev. T. P. Cleveland offered a resolution, thanking the speaker, and refering the subject matter to the historian, Major R. I. Rogers.

THE SOUTH AND THE PRISONERS.

Colonel George T. Fry delivered a short address, showing that it has been the custom of many people on the other side to cast flings at the southern people and accuse them of crucity to prisoners during the war; and that when he would sit down and tell such people the true facts of history, they are amazed. He then called attention to the two articles from the pen of the lamented Jefferson Davis in recent numbers of Belford's Magazine, which cover the whole question and vindicate in an irrefutable manner the conduct of the southern people in their treatment of federal prisoners, and asked the younger members to read these articles and preserve them as treasures for the benefit of coming generations, along with such other odds and ends of history as shall remain benefit of coming generations, along with such other odds and ends of history as shall remain evidences that their fathers were not bararians.

The address was received with acclamation and applause that sanctioned the principles set forth.

The BATTLE OF RESACA.

Colonel L. P. Thomas then arose and read a very interesting paper, entitled "The Battle of Resaca, Discipline in War, Discipline in Peace." After going over the roll of officers of the Forty-second Georgia regiment, he went on to tell of the many amusing things that occurred during the first days of the war. Their tents were new and clean, pitched up on the mountain side, with the names of the officers printed in bold and Roman letters on the side of the tents.

The story of how the lightning bugs routed the boys one night, in these early days, when the new soldiers thought the enemy were advancing on them with torches, was amusingly told.

the new soldiers thought the enemy were advancing on them with torches, was amusingly told.

The fine discipline afterwards attained by this "staying regiment" is a subject of history, and the speaker paid a high compliment to the gallant R. J. Henderson, to whom was due so much of the glory of the old Forty-Second. Twenty-one battles, hard fought, attest the fighting qualities of that regiment.

The battle of Resaca was told in thrilling language, when Sherman and Johnson, the two great champions, with two great, grand armies, were to meet that day; and the manner in which the knightly Henderson rallied the seattered ranks of the companies of his regiment, and saved the army from total defeat.

The concluding words of the address were on the line of our present prosperity and illustrating the benefits of discipline in peace.

In a tribute to the old flag of the Forty-second, the concluding lines of Father Ryan's beautiful poem, "The Conquered Banner," was recited with touching pathos.

The address was recived with loud applause, and the thanks of President Calhoun, and the address will become a part of the collection being prepared by the historian.

In a very complimentary speech from the chair, President Calhoun appointed Mr. Frank T. Ryan, a veteran with one leg, who is so well known in Atlanta, to prepare and deliver the address at the next meeting.

of Grady in calling, "Major Stewart, come home," which aroused the whole country, and resulted in the raising of the fund for a home for the survivors of the war of the confederacy. His tribute to the work of Mr. Grady after this, his great scheme of benevolence had been accomplished, in going forth to evangelize the world, was sublimely eloquent. "The world," said he, "is not large enough to hold the fame of this man who did so much for his country in the cause of right!"

Judge R. L. Rogers followed, telling the sorrow of the northern people which he witnessed, chancing to be there when the sad news went abroad.

"We did not know," said he, "what a great man we had in our midst until he was gone."

The resolution was adopted by a rising vote unanimously, and the following committee was appointed to draft the resolutions: Rev. T. P. Cleveland, Colonel B. F. Abbott, General P. M. B. Young, Major J. H. Ketner, Mr. W. A. Fuller, Colonel G. T. Fry and Major Robert L. Rodgers.

A resolution was then offered by Dr. Charles D'Alvigny asking the appointment of a committee to adopt resolutions of sympathy on the death of the wife of General Longstreet. The water board says Atlantians shall have it.

The executive committee of the board, Mr. Kontz, chairman of the waterworks committee of the general council, Mr. J. C. Kimball and Colonel J. W. Baum, met in the waterworks office yesterday to discuss the well.

Of the executive committee, President Hammock, Mr. Hass, Mr. Smith, Mr. Boyd and Mr. Winship were present.

Mr. Kimball had a report and an accompanying diagram to submit.

Mr. Rimball had a report and an accompanying diagram to submit.

Colonel Baum submitted a report without a diagram, but full of dollar marks.

Both reports were interesting.

Colonel Baum gave the committee a microscopic view of the interior of the well from top to bottom, showing where every vein entered. Then he indicated the cost of removing the aumy playes and values and bringing ing the pump, plugs and valves, and bringing the water from each vein below the one now in use.

It will cost $1,425 to bring the water from the bottom of the well.

Mr. Kimball's paper was a disquisition upon the medical properties of the water, and a prayer for the well. His diagram contained long bags of flax seed forced down between the pipe and the wall of the well to the bottom tom.

The flax-seed sacks are put there to prevent water getting into the well.

"Now, my opinion is," said Mr. Kimball, "that we should plug up every vein and draw that water from the very bottom of the well. In that way we could escape the vein which contains the salt and the vein contaminated by

"There is no sewerage in that water any where," exclaimed Colonel Baum. "Samples of it were sent to the very finest chemist in Boston, and he said that it was absolutely pure."
Then Mr. Kimball and Colonel Baum had

"Can we get all the water we need from that deep vein?" asked a member of the board.

"Every drop," said Colonel Baum, drawing a paper from his pocket.

"Now, last year," the colonel continued looking at his paper, "we used 5,000,000 gallons more than the year before, and that year 4,000,000 more than the previous year."

"The truth is," he continued, folding up his paper, "that the supply down there is inexhaustible. I was standing beside the well the day we struck that water. Every vein above had been closely plugged, and I could hear the drill strike the rock. When the noise ceased I knew we had hit another vein, and we pulled up. The water rose very rapidly, and I sent for the mayor. He thought one of the other veins was leaking, and we pumped out all we could. Then I drove in plugs away down below the other vein and waited several hours. When we were satisfied I started to drill out the plugs and found them only about three hundred feet down. The force of that stream had forced them up several hundred feet. That is how strong that stream is."

"I move that we shut off everything," said Mr. Boyd, "down to the bottom."

"That's what I think," said Mr. Haas,

"I move that we shut off everything," said Mr. Boyd, "down to the bottom."
"That's what I think," said Mr. Haas, "then we'll know we've done all we can."
"So do I," remarked President Hammock.

"But can you keep fat off that water, judge?" Mr. Boyd asked of President Hammock.

"It's the healthiest water in the country," remarked Colonel Baum. "Now, if you'll show me a case of typhoid fever in Atlanta where that water has been used in the past two years, I'll give $500 in cash to any charity in the city."

The sentiment of those present was to draw the water from the bottom of the well, and when the committee makes its report to the water board it will more than likely so recommend.

her strange healing power.

She is a portly, little blonde little scientist, with the mysteries and miracles of the new science at her finger tips. She is the first "professional" Christian science teacher and One of her pupils, Mrs. R. P. "Four years ago," said Mrs. Eddy, "I was quite ill of typhoid fever, and the doctors had given up my case as absolutely hopeless. I was cured by Christian science, through the instrumentality of a lady friend. Naturally, I became greatly interested in the subject, and as soon as I was able took a regular course of lectures at Chicago."

"What were they like?" "The lectures—well, I'll tell you. The first six are devoted to teaching the principles of the science: 'The Laws of God,' teaching the non-material and non-personal character of the 'Great Spirit;' 'The Statement of Being;' 'The Relation of Man to His Maker;' 'Faith,' teaching how to get faith; 'How to Bring the Human Mind into Contact'—'rapport,' we

Human Mind into Contact'—'rapport,' we scientists say—'with the Divine Spirit,' and 'The Law of Spirit.'

"The next six lessons are designed to teach one to apply, in practice, the principles demonstrated in the first six."

"And that's what you are going to teach here in Atlanta?"

"No, not exactly. The principles are the same, but every healer, acquiring experience in the course of time, modifies the form of instruction somewhat. So in some details my method is unlike that of any other Christian scientist."

method is unlike that of any other Unrisuan scientist."

"What text books are used?"

"Only two—the Bible and 'Science and Health,' the latter a book written by Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, of Boston, the founder of the sect. Her book is merely the Bible systematized. Of course, fall classes of people attend these lectures, and to command the interest of all—skeptic, infidel, atheist, Christian, or what not—the words 'First Cause' are commonly used instead of the word 'God.'

"That don't mean that we are discarding the Bible, or improving on it—nothing of that Bible, or improving on it—nothing of that sort, for the system we employ in healing is the one that Christ used. But this is a science, and it must be handled in a scientific way.

"Do you make 'healers, of everybody that attends your lectures?"

"Does Patti make prima donnas of all that hear herfsing?" Could she make prima donnas of them by explaining the principles of music? Not at all. It all depends upon the mentality of the student. Nobody can become a healer unless mentally and morally pure. The mind is the element upon which we work, the medium of intercourse. Don't that answer your question? But these lectures benefit all that hear them. It teaches them how to be happy—how to live right. Of coupse in this, just as in the study of music, there are some that learn rapidly, some|slowly, some a great deal and some very little."

"Can you cure any form of disease?"

"Yes, but we never guarantee a cure. Never."

"Why?"

Never."

"A great many cases, given up in the same way by physicians, I have cured. In fact, I had rather treat those chronic cases—the ones that doctors have given up as hopeless."

"What is your motive in travelling like this over the country teaching?"

"To spread the truth. I am doing the pioneer work. It's always this way: When I leave here healers will come from other cities and establish themselves in Atlanta. After I get people interested in it, then they come—some of them real healers, some not so good.

what you can. Of course, I have taught some free—but don't say that. It wouldn't do, you know, to have your time taken up with just anybody.

"There are a lot of cheap teachers. Some of them give a course for ten dollars, but that don't do. What you want is to get the best people in the town interested in it, and those people can well afford to pay fifty dollars. The truth of the matter is, they don't think it amounts to much when they get it cheap. It's a fact. Just like a cheap music teacher—they won't listen to her play if she tells them she is willing to teach for twenty-five cents a lesson. I have seen both tried. These cheap teachers get cheaper and cheaper, and finally disappear from the field, while the fifty dollar teachers flourish. That's just the way it is."

"Do you cure free of cost?"

"Well, I used to. Now, though, you see, I am known from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and there is not so much need for it. Then, it's real hard work curing people."

"Have you a form of treatment?"

"Well, a little; but the best way is to pray just as you are prompted by the circumstances of that particular case."

"How long will you be here?"

"That depends on the class I get and on the cases I am called upon to cure. The twelve lessons may be given one a day—or not so often—and there is no telling how long the patients may keep me. Some times a few days. Some times three or four weeks.

"I deliver my lecture at the Gate City Guard armory Thursday evening. Mrs. Spalding, my old pupil, will assist me in the course of lectures, and will remain here after I leave."

SOCIAL EVENTS. II.

Since Mrs. Madden's return from the north the musical portion of Atlanta have not heard her in any of her incomparable programmes of music. It will have an opportunity of doing so on Friday evening, January 3jst, at the hall of the Y. M. C. A. Mrs. Madden has been so long recognized as an artiste in the true meaning of the title, that it is almost superfluous to speak on this point. Her unflinching endeavors to elevate the standard of her noble art during her career as a teacher and performer in Atlanta, prove more forcibly than words could, the true, musicianly intelligence and instincts which have always guided Mrs. Madden in her battle for the cause of music, against all and everything that tended to degrade her profession. Mrs. Madden should meet with a cordial and sincere reception on Friday next, for her programme is one that deserves recognition from all true lovers of music.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

Exchange.

NEW YORK, January 27.—In the stock market today additional evidence that a complete change has occurred in the temper of speculation was shown, and the broadening tendency of the market which was so marked last week made further progress today, dealings extending to a much larger number of stocks than at any time within the past year. A feature of the dealings was activity among some stocks which have not been traded in to any extent in months and the fact that the increase in business was entirely among a new set of stocks, which, with but a few exceptions, are low-priced securities, was a subject of universal remark. There was undoubtedly heavy realizing during the day, notwithstanding the fact that the taking of profit in Saturday's market was of such magnitude, but the market continued to rise nevertheless, and the stock pressed forward to join in the upward movement and the undertone of dealings of a much pronounced strong character. Foreigners were sellers of stocks to a limited extent in early dealings, and these sales with the difference in rates for money at two centers had the effect of stiffening up rates for sterling exchange today which was also an element which has worked against the natural tendency of the market. Foreigners, however, were buyers of their stocks later in the day and especially of Louisville and Nashville. American stock are the only securities, which at present show any strength in the London market, and the disposition to buy them shows an increase since the rise started here. The great feature of the day was the renewal of activity and strength in sugar refineries and lead trust, the former being specially prominent both for activity and strength. Dealings in stock were accompanied by a renewal of rumors of an arrangement with outside refineries, and also of the story of the resignation of the Bavenneyers, which was again denied. The rise in sugar was very rapid in the early trading, and it was thought in the crowd that som Exchange.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular. NEW YORK, January 27—[Special.]—The Liver-pool market this morning opened strong at an ad-vance of 3-64d advance over Saturday, but before vance of 3-64d advance over Saturday, but before noon the improvement had been entirely lost, and the close was quiet at Saturday's prices. Our private cables report that the reaction was due to heavy sales to realize on the part of the bulls, among whom Messrs. Seasoon & Co., a large East India house, were prominent, selling some 25,000 bales. This market during the day has been comparatively tame although the decline has been bales. This market during the day has been com-paratively tame, although the decline has been slow, and betrays the existence of a large scalping short interest, eager to take small profits on a drooping market. This, however, is generally the case after such an advance, as the bears are gen-erally timid during the first portion of the ensuing erally timid during the first portion of the ensuing decline. Receipts at the ports are comparatively full, being 30,600 bales, against 24,000 bales last year, and it is conceded that they are likely to continue so for a week or two. A declining market, within limits is more likely to bring out the reserve supply than a continuance of the advance would be. New Orleans receipts of tomorrow will probably be 10,000 bales or more.

HURBARD, PRICE & Co.

Henry Clews & Co.'s Circular. NEW YORK, January 27—[Special.]—An easier one to the Liverpool market and increased port retone to the Liverpool market and increased portre-ceipts served as a check in the upward movement in cotton, and subsequently a reaction of about 19 points occurred all along the line from Saturday's prices. While spot cotton appeared to in be fair demand in Liverpool this morning with sales of 12,000, futures, after opening firm at 3-64d advance, closed quiet and barely steady with the improve-ment lost. Here the market opened 224 points lower, but quickly rallied at the bulls came in and supported prices, but when the local longs began to realize on some of their holdings, with the rerted prices, but when the local longs began lize on some of their holdings, with the reestimated at 23,000 bales, a heavy selling ment was inaugurated which lasted nearly all The liquidation by some of the hig operators have been conspicuous in the advance lent ragement to the bears, and they used it as a hargument in hammering prices, but it did vail them much, as their offerings were vabsorbed, and at the close there was a reof 3 noints. The southern markets were of 3 points. The southern markets were lly firm, and in some cases higher. Spot here ruled steady with of 234 bales; also dek not before reported, 546 bales for spin-ad 284 bales for export. The receipts at the were 30,784 bales, against 31,740 bales last and 24,366 bales last year. HENRY CLEWS & Co.

The Sun's Cotton Review.
YORK, January 27—The Sun, in its review cotton market, says: Futures declined 5@10, with Liverpool showing less buoyancy, its are larger, and longs are realizing pretty both for foreign and southern account. ation, though still large, was not so active excited as last week. The southern markets rather less active on the spot, but in some were 1-16@½ thigher, and in New Orleans, prices declined, option trading was active. n on the spot was firm.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisious.

CHICAGO, January 27-After a temporary feelweak, and prices ruled lower, touching the lowest point reached on the recent decline. The opening was about the same as Saturday's closing, and advanced %c: but foreign market advices were again of an unfavorable tenor to holders, the visible supply did not show as large a decrease as had government crop report was a rumor that the government crop report was out, and showed an increase of 2 per cent in acreage of winter wheat, and the condition 102.1 against 106 for the corresponding time last year. There are some doubts of the reliability of this report, but, nevertheless, it had its effect. Prices for May declined 4.8%c, but recovered, and the closing was the same as Saturday.

Corn-A moderate trade was reported, and the feeling was somewhat easier. Transactions were, in the main, local, and fluctuations confined within 1/20/4c range. Receipts are considerably in excess of expectations. The market opened at Saturday's closing, was steady for a time, sold off 1/8@1/4c, ruled quiet, the closing quantions being a shade below Saturday. Oats were quiet and easy, with a lighter volume Oats were quiet and easy, with a lighter volume of business in all deliveries. An i of the business was in May, but price changes were all January and February, although not offere at Lany degree of freedom, met with less demand. A weaker feeling developed, and prices receded 4.6% 4c.

A quiet feeling prevailed in the market for hog products, and changes were slight. Offers on speculative account were light, both from local and outside sources, and the demand was confined at thillies of four horse. Prices averaged a tride to filling a few shorts. Prices averaged a trifle higher on the leading articles, and the market closed quiet at about medium figures. Most of was taken to mean an immediate beginning of the work.

"Because," an official of the road says, "every effort now is concentrated on the porthern end of the line. That portion, extending to a connection with the Knoxville secording to the terms of the contract."

"What then?" "That means that trains will be running between Knoxville and Marietta by the 1st of July. Then the extension to Atlanta."

"Will that extension be completed this year?"

"I don't think there is any doubt about it."
"How will you come into the city?"
"No details of that sort have been arranged, because, as I have said, we are busy as we can be at the other end of the line. As soon as that is completed, the Atlanta extension will be taken up and pushed to an early completion" Florida Midland and Georgia.

A meeting of the directors of this road will be held at Valdosta, February 8th, to elect officers. At that meeting the Georgia and Florida Construction company, a company to be organized for the purpose of building the road, will meet and arrange its work. A charter has been applied for, and work is expected to begin as soon as the construction company is organized.

ter has been applied for, and work is expected to begin as soon as the construction company is organized.

The Florida directors are William Rogers, J. R. Young, M. Y. McIntyre, J. M. Wilkinson, T. G. Crawford, W. S. West, W. S. Jordon, N. A. Wilkiams and J. T. Roberts.

The Georgia directors are William Rogers, J. B. Withers, J. M. Wilkinson, A. B. Hull and C. R. Pendleton.

The stockholders are largely Savannah, Valdosta, and Madison, Florida, business men. Among the Savannah stockholders are Captain John L. Hammond, Captain J. B. Withers, William Rogers, A. B. Hull, J. R. Young, M. Y. McIntyre and P. D. Daffin.

The road is to be built from Valdosta via Madison, Florida, to Dead Man's bay, on the gulf coast, a distance of about 100 miles. The road will go through the best farming country in Georgia or Florida, and the timber cannot be surpassed, and is hardly equaled by any in the world. Cedar abounds in great quantities along the Stenehatchee river which forms Dead Man's bay, and the gulf termiuus of the road is one of the largest cedar shipping ports on the coast. The section of country to be traversed by the road furnishes one-seventh of the long staple cotton of the world. At Valdosta the Savannah, Florida and Western milway and the Georgia Southern and Florida malroad give a northern and eastern outlet, and in Florida the new line will have an outlet by the Florida Central and Peninsular railroad. Eighteen miles of the road are already graded and a long trestle over the Withlacoochee river is built. This is about the only trestling of any consequence that will have to be done.

"Colonel Machen's road, between Eatonton and Atlanta, may be set down as a certainty, humanly speaking. It is by no means so sure that the road will come any further east than Eatonton. If the people want it, it will come. That is just how the matter stands."

The South Bound Road.

Savannah is hesitating over a great opportunity—the building of the South Bound through Savannah, which means, also, the extension to Florida. The canvassing committee is at work in Savannah now, but reports only fair success. Savannah is required to give $75,000 for a railroad 145 miles long and through a thickly settled and prosperous agrithrough a thickly settled and prosperous agri-cultural region where trade and commerce, not now tributary to Savannah, may be di-verted to that city, and now controlled by a

The shortening of distance is one of the chief features of the road. From Columbia to Savannah, via Augusta, is 217 miles, and via Charleston 252 miles, but by the South Bound Columbia will be but 145 miles from Savannah.

Savannah.

The passenger traffic of the South Bound, it is urged by the projectors, will be very large, as the building of the road, with its connections, it is claimed, will shorten the distance between New York and Jacksonville, Fla., 125 miles.

The projectors only await the finishing up of the stock subscription in Savannah, when they say there will be little delay in beginning work, and they do not expect to ask for a work, and they do not expect to ask for dollar of the subscriptions until the road completed from Barnwell to Savannah.

State Railroad Gossip. The proposition to build a road from Tate, on the Marietta and North Georgia, to Lula, on the Richmond and Danville, the road passing through Dahlonega, is meeting with popular favor along the route, and an active canvass would probably put the project on its feet and start the building this year. Athens could doubtless be relied on to build the forty miles from Lula to Athens, paralleling the Northeastern.

A force of fifty men is at work on the Isle of from Thunderbolt to Sandfly station. The number is to be increased so that the road may be completed in full operation by March 15ch.

and nence sent you no special dispatch on that subject.

Of late there has been so much printed tending to confirm faith in the story, that I have again given the matter special attention, and am fully warranted in saying positively that there is no foundation whatever for the rumor. The promoters of the Piedmont Land company are actively engaged in perfecting plans for the immediate construction of a railroad from Piedmont to Gadsden. This new line will very probably be promptly extended from Gadsden to Cross Plains, and thence on to Roanoke, where it will connect with the Georgia Central.

A PROMINENT OPINION.

Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York, 214 and 216 Broadway. NEW YORK, January 11, 1890.-W. T. Crenshaw Esq., General Agent, Atlanta, Ga.—Dear Sir: We Esq., General Agent, Atlanta, Ga.—Dear Sir: We have your letter of the 6th, covering a newspaper clipping, regarding the case of Wilson versus an Accident Insurance company, and asking what our interpretation is of the clause of our accident policy, which exempts us from liability in cases resulting from "voluntary exposure to unnecessary danger."

It is not our part to make any criticism of the ludge in the given case.

resulting from "voluntary exposure to unnecessary danger."

It is not our part to make any criticism of the judge in the given case.

The clause, "voluntary exposure to unnecessary danger," must be interpreted as if it read "wilful exposure to unnecessary danger." It is incredible that any man will attempt to cross a track in front of an approaching engine unless he miscalculates the distance and his opportunity to cross safely. We think that the presumption of law must always be that no person exposes himself to unnecessary danger knowingly, unless he does so wilfully. The burden of proof must always be in such a case upon the company to show that there was either an intent to run into danger; or a fool-hardy disposition leading to reckless conduct.

We had a case a few months ago in which a gentleman, resident in Philadelphia, on a train between this city and Philadelphia was thrown off the platform of a Pullman car while attempting to cross from one car to the other. It may very well be said that any person who attempts to cross from one car to another exposes himself to voluntary danger. We, however, did not for a moment think of raising that issue, and if we had raised it, we have not the slightest idea that any court would have sustained us in it. If, however, we could have shown that the man was thrown from the car while standing on the platform and making no effort to protect himself from accident, but on the contrary, exposing himself, we certainly should have been entitled to raise the issue of voluntary exposure in the sense of wilful exposure to unnecessary danger.

The public will sooner or later learn to discriminate between companies. No man who desires accident insurance is likely to hesitate over a difference of two or three dollars a year in the price of the policy, provided he can be sure that the higher priced policy carries an assurance of liberal and prompt adjustments. Our accident business increased last year 33 1-3 per cent, and this is very good evidence that the public are satisfied w

CAR WORKS TO BE BUILT THE COMMITTEE OF FIVE MAKES AN INTERESTING REPORT

morce has been instructed too apply for a charter and to open books of subscription.

This will be done at once.

The committee created by the investment and manufacturing committee of the chamber off commerce convened in Secretary Saunder's office yesterday. Mr. Wylier chairman, Col. Adair and Mr. Peck being present.

The interest in the enterprise was shown by the presence of members of the chamber who have no connection with the sub-committee.

Mr. E. P. Chambelin, Mr. W. W. Boyd, Mr. Geo. Winship, Mr.D. C. Bacon, Mr. W. A. Gregg and Mr. Wm. I. Zachrey were in at-And everyone took a lively interest and part in the work.

Chairman Wylie opened the session by saying that the committee of five had convened and given the car works a careful and complete investigation "The result of that investigation." Chairman Wylie said, "is given in a report we are now ready to submit.'

The report was presented, and was: ALLANTA, Ga., January 27, 1830.—To the Investment and Manufacturing Committee of the Chamber of Commerce: The committee appointed by you to report on the organization of a company for the erection of carworks, to build and repair rail-poad cars in the city of Atlanta, beg to submit the ollowing:

llowing:

We recommend that a committee be appointed on the chamber of commerce to procure a charter r said works, with a capital of $250,000, with thority to increase the same from time to time an amount not to exceed $1,000,000, and that id company be authorized to organize and comence business when $100,000 of the capital stock subscribed.

mence business when $100.000 of the capital stock is subscribed.

That books of subscription be opened at once, payable as follows:

Ten per cent within thirty days and the balance in installments not to exceed twenty-five per cent each, as may be called for by the directors, and that the committee be empowered to do such other things as may be necessary to complete the organization of the company.

In closing this report, we beg to say that, in our judgment such an entryprise would prove profitable to those who put their money into the business, and at the same time would benefit our city.

our city.

The rapid growth and increase in the population of Atlanta during the past year should stimulate Me have now reached a point when any material nerease in our population without a correspond-ng increase in the producing capacity of our in-ustries, would be detrimental to the welfare of ing increase in the producing capacity of our industries, would be detrimental to the welfare of our city.

With our many advantages, the year 1900 will probably show a population of at least 200,000.

To provide for this increase, it will be necessary to rapidly multiply our industries.

While the production of such articles as require the greatest amount of hard labor and the least raw material and capital is most desirable, to get them we must first establish the larger works, the products of which are rapidly disposed of. With these established, the smaller and more profitable industries mentioned above will be sure to follow. We need to revive the Atlanta way, which means a long pull, and a strong pull, and a pull all together.

By this method we never failed to carry to success any enterprise in the interest of our city, and this, too, when we were comparatively weak. Now that we have grown strong, by the same method we should be able to accomplish whatever we may please to do.

Mr. Peck addressed the committee, showing the profit which each car would give the stockholders.

Colonel Adair moved that the report be received, and it was received.

Mr. Chamberlin moved that the report be referred to the referred to the

Mr. Chamberlin moved that the report be referred to a committee of five, to be appointed by the chamber of commerce, and that that committee be instructed to carry out the recommendations of the report.

The motion was adopted.

Colonel Adair in one of his enthusiastic speeches said that he nad received the money from two young men, who are to start the boiler works and had given them their deed.

"And that aint all," remarked the colonel, "they have commenced work and in a short time their building will be up."

Chairman Wyliegsaid that the gentleman proposing to start the new ice mill, was not quite ready to submit his proposition.

"That reminds me of something I had forgotten," said Colonel Adair. "I am now closing a tradel with a man who lost a leg following Forrester for a piece of ground. On it he is going to put up a factory. I haven't seen him in twenty-five years, but I know he is a good one. He is going to manufacture table condiments. So you see Atlanta still grows."

Rheumatism and catarrh are both blood diseases. In many severe cases they have yielded to treatment with B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), made by Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Write for book of convincing proofs. Sent free. R. P. Dodge, Atlanta, Ga., says: "My wife had catarrh and nothing did her any good. Her con stitution finally failed and poison got into her blood. I placed her on a use of B. B., and to my surprise her recovery was rapid and com W. P. McDaniel, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I was naciated and had rheumatism so bad that could not get along without cratches. I als o had neuralgia in the head. First class physicians did me no good. Then I tried B. B. B., and its effects were magical. I cheerfully recommend it as a good tonic and quick cure."

Mrs. Matilda Nichols, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: "I had catarrh six years and a most distressing cough, and my eyes were much swollen. Five bottles of B. B. B., thank God, cured me."

John M. Davis, Tyler, Texas, writes: "I was subject a number of years to spells of inflar tory rheumatism, which six bottles of B. B. B. thank heaven, has entirely cured. I have not felt the slightest pain since."

have been subject."—Capt. U. Carley, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"From an experience of over thirty years in the sale of proprietary medicines, I feel justified in recommending Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. One of the best recommendations of the Pectoral is the enduring quality of its popularity, it being more salable now than it was twenty-five years ago, when its great success was considered marvelous."—R. S. Drake, M. D., Beliot, Kaus.

"My dittle sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our-family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—C. O.
